Lakes water levels, Pumping Strategy

Two new ideas were discussed

1. Can we put some sort of timer on the pump and set to auto shut off? This would prevent excessive pumping by accident. All agreed this would be a great idea to prevent issues in the future regarding water levels....
2. Obtaining some sort of measuring stick to be attached to one or two areas in order to better understand the water levels. This would help to identify potential flooding (high water) as well as low water levels "at a glance". All agreed this would be a Low cost, highly effective idea.
